

THE DEATH RECORD.

MISS ETTA N. REAMER

William Cook, of Bedford, and Loy McMillan, of Pittsburgh, Have Answered the Final Summons

On Thursday of last week the blessed Lord Jesus went down into His garden Gethsemane to gather one of His loved ones.

In sweetest accents of love, she breathed to her Lord: "I am my beloved's and my beloved is mine; He feedeth among the lilies."

"His left hand is under my head, and His right hand doth embrace me."

When strewn with lilies, and a sedative was given her, with a presentiment of her departure, her last words were: "I will now have a profound sleep." At 11:40 o'clock at night she passed away in a sweet and peaceful sleep.

Don't doubt the angelic hosts were uncannily around her bedchamber and with great joy carried her immortal spirit to her blissful and eternal home, there to be forever with her blessed Savior.

A valued friend has paid this tribute to her memory:

"The subject of this brief sketch has impressed her strong personality so deeply upon the mind and heart of our community that words eulogistic of her seem cold and empty things."

"Although an invalid for a number of years her death was a shock to all, so suddenly and unexpectedly did the silent messenger come to her. Unconscious of pain, her mind disengaged from a world in which she shirked no duty, she peacefully fell asleep to wake with those she so fondly loved."

"Of sweet, motherly, motherly to the motherless, kind to the friendless, benevolent and generous soul, thou art gone to thy reward."

Death came to her suddenly, quietly, without any darkness or fear. Peace, perfect peace, hovered over her until the vital spark had taken its flight. In death her face was sweet and lovely in its repose.

It is said that some persons are loved to be saved. Do we understand what that means? It means the election is to be saved. It means the election is to be saved. It means the election is to be saved.

Miss ETTA N. REAMER was an elected person, for her whole life was one of continuous, unselfish, unvarying and useful service. She served the sick, the afflicted, the suffering and the poor, often visiting them, comforting them, and when necessary, nursing them.

She made no distinction between the rich and the poor, the white and the colored people. All alike received her sympathy and her care. The distinctive feature of the present century is altruism, the principle of living and acting for the interest of others. She acted upon this humane principle during her whole life.

No more touching tales have been paid to her memory than the course of the poor and the colored people, who called all day long to have a last gaze upon her pure, beautiful and peaceful face. She suffered much for several years she suffered physical ailment and mental trouble, but she always had the same happy and peaceful face.

EXPANSION IN THE SOUTH.

Do Joe Wheeler and Henry Watterson Represent Southern Democrats?

The Harpersburg Independent fears that General Joe Wheeler and Colonel Henry Watterson, in shouting for McKinley's imperial policy, represent something of a general sentiment among southern Democrats. This fear was expressed by the Independent just after the Decoration Day speeches of Wheeler and Watterson, when the latter asserted that expansion—which he himself in an analogous to a very old-fashioned and the former said at Boston that the true American sentiment is: "My country, my country, my country."

There are good reasons for believing that the fears of the Independent are groundless. By holding two Federal positions in direct violation of the constitution General Wheeler has placed himself in an analogous to a very old-fashioned and the former said at Boston that the true American sentiment is: "My country, my country, my country."

A MARVELOUS AGE

In Forty Years the United States Has Nearly Doubled Its Population and in Fifty It Has Quadrupled Its Wealth.

Special correspondence of THE GAZETTE.

New York, July 4.—Of the seven hundred millions of human beings who now inhabit the globe how many hundreds recognize the fact that we are living in the most marvelous age that this world of ours has ever seen since the Almighty said in the plenitude of his power, "Let there be light."

The child of to-day hardly pauses in his play to look at a passing miracle that would have started a prophet of the old time in his wildest dreams.

Only some like yesterday since the smallest hunter going into the woods for a day's sport carried his shot bag over one shoulder and his powder horn over the other; his right hand pocket, made conveniently on the outside of his hunting coat, he carried in his left hand.

He carried a single shot and a few bolts of an old day pipe, the filled with powder being considered a full charge for an ordinary shot gun; whether the hunter was after ducks or drakes then he measured his shot by the rule of thumb; one pocket was stuffed with wadding, to keep the shot and powder apart; the loading of a gun was a job in those old days that took a frequent day, a great deal of powder, and a great deal of time.

Then some genius invented the percussion cap. This was considered one of the greatest improvements in firearms since the days of the archer and the matchlock. Then came the spring gun for measuring the charge of shot, and step by step to the perfect gun of today, a great deal of powder, and a great deal of time.

American Investigations—Democratic Success in Kentucky Is Assured—Bos Plots Make a Political Deal.

Special correspondence of THE GAZETTE.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—The break between Mr. McKinley and Secretary Alger, which seemed almost at hand a day or two ago, has been postponed for a time by Alger's denial, doubtless under instructions from Alger, of the correctness of the anti-McKinley interviews recently attributed to him by reputable newspapers, in Michigan and elsewhere. But postponing it does not mean that it will be avoided permanently. Notwithstanding his public protestations of loyalty to Mr. McKinley, Alger is under suspicion, and if he can prevent a break that will result in his being kicked out of the cabinet, he will have to display more diplomacy than he has ever been credited with in his career.
